

HERE SHE IS ...

Jeanne Robertson specializes in hilarious humor based on her life experiences. Speaking to thousands of people annually, she utilizes her positively funny style to illustrate that a sense of humor is much more than a laughing matter.

Other speakers might be as witty as Jeanne. Some might even be as tall. (Bare-footed with her hair "mashed" down, she's 6'2" in her size 11 stocking feet.) But nowhere will you find a speaker so adept at turning personal experiences into humorous presentations that do more than elicit laughter. This Miss Congeniality winner in the Miss America Pageant uses her down-home Southern drawl to leave her audiences laughing ... and thinking about her message.

Jeanne's longevity as a humorous speaker has not gone unnoticed by her peers. She has been awarded every top honor in her profession. They like her back home too. The North Carolina Press Association named Jeanne its 2001 North Carolinian of the Year.

You may have seen this successful speaker interviewed by CBS correspondent Morley Safer on "60 Minutes" ... or seen one of her presentations on public television ... or read one of her books about humor. But only if you've heard Jeanne in person at one of the thousands of speeches she has presented over the past 40 years can you really appreciate why she stands at the top of her profession.

Jeanne Robertson is funny. Oh my, yes. She also knows that her job is far more than "being funny." Her message is that a sense of humor is an attitude, an approach toward working with people. She believes that this humor attitude can be developed and improved, and she outlines how to do so while she captivates her audiences with funny, original stories.

Jeanne Robertson

A Tall Speaker With A Tall Sense of Humor

AND THERE'S MORE ...

- Originally from Graham, North Carolina
- 1967 graduate of Auburn University (without honors)
- Taught physical education and coached basketball nine years before entering speaking full-time
- Miss North Carolina yearrrrrs ago (Can still get in the gown, but can't breathe)
- Miss Congeniality in the Miss America Pageant - voted upon by contestants (Usually the one considered least likely to win)
- Author - Humor: The Magic of Genie
 - Mayberry Humor Across the USA
 - Don't Let the Funny Stuff Get Away
- Certified Speaking Professional
- CPAE Speaker Hall of Fame Recipient
- Past President of the National Speakers Association
- Recipient of the 1989 Cavett Award - the highest honor in professional speaking
- 1998 Golden Gavel Award recipient, presented by Toastmasters International to one individual annually for accomplishments in leadership and communication
- NCAA Southeastern Conference/Auburn University's Woman Entrepreneur of the Year 2000
- North Carolinian of the Year 2001 - named by the
- North Carolina Press Association
- Speaks two languages fluently: English...and Southern (Has trouble with English)

"Tired of snoozing through convention speeches? ... maybe your convention would rather hear Jeanne Robertson, a former Miss America contender, joke about the perils of being six-feet-two."

The Wall Street Journal

"Her tall tales ease pressure."

USA Today

Contact:

Jeanne Robertson
2905 Forestdale Drive
Burlington, North Carolina 27215
336-584-9641 * 800-962-6268
email: Jeanne@JeanneRobertson.com
www.JeanneRobertson.com
Fax: 336-584-3227

("The Meetin' Ain't Over 'til the Tall Lady Speaks! ")